

National Capital Model Soldiers Society 2024 Washington Show

Categories, Awards & Contest Rules

(As of September 1, 2024)

This September 7th the NCMSS Washington Show is returning to its previous venue at the Springfield Hilton in Northern Virginia. As is our custom, Gold, Silver, and Bronze awards will be given according to the “Chicago” or “Open” system selected by judging teams. All show attendees will have the opportunity to vote for the “People’s Choice Best of Show”.

These are the categories for this year’s show:

Junior Level – The Junior Level is intended for novice painters and modelers under the age of 18. Awards for qualified exhibits the same as the General/Advanced Level. Note: If a modeler is 18 or under, and if they feel their work is competitive at the General/Advanced Level, they are free to put their work in that level.

General/Advanced – The General/Advanced Level is geared to all modelers of different levels of ability who have or may not have entered similar exhibitions in the past. Awards are Gold, Silver, or Bronze Medals in each division. Judges will select a “Best of” in each of the divisions.

Division Descriptions

Exhibits can be entered in one of ten divisions:

- Historical Painters
- Historical Open
- Flat Figures
- Fantasy/Science Fiction Painters
- Fantasy/Science Fiction Open
- Ordnance (spit into four equal subdivisions)
 - Ordnance/Armor/Military Vehicles
 - Maritime/Ships
 - Aircraft
 - Civilian Vehicles
- Gundam Painters
- Gundam Open
- Show Commemorative Figure
- Diorama

In the Historical, Fantasy/Science Fiction, Flat Figures and Gundam Painters Divisions, judging is based entirely upon painting skill along with some other lesser considerations listed under the OPEN SYSTEM criteria. Exhibitors should note on the Registration Forms the kit manufacturer. Although scratch-built and converted figures may be entered in the Painters Division, these figures will be judged solely on the quality of the painting.

The Historical, Fantasy/Science Fiction and Gundam Open Divisions are intended primarily for scratch-built and converted figures, but also vignettes with two or three figures; exhibits are judged on equal measures of imagination, presentation, and painting/modeling skill. Exhibitors should note on the Registration Forms the kit manufacturer. If the work is a conversion, a short description of what was done to convert the figure or note that the figure is scratch built is helpful. For vignettes the figures and/or vehicles need not be conversion or scratch built.

The Ordnance Division consists of four sub-categories for models without figures, such as aircraft, armor, cars, and ships. In these categories NCMSS does not differentiate stock/commercial kits from converted or scratch-built kits and models. Judging will be based solely on modeling and painting skills. Note: Figures may be included, but they will not be considered in the judging. This Division is sponsored by Northern Virginia Modelers.

Diorama Division is a combination of models with a believable setting that tells a story, or sets a mood, or creates a charged atmosphere. In addition to evaluating the modeling of a diorama's individual elements, the judges will consider the strength of the diorama's storyline or mood and the overall presentation of the diorama. These three factors are equally important. For dioramas, the figures and/or vehicles need not be conversions or scratch built. This Division is sponsored by Northern Virginia Modelers.

Every effort will be made to not handle your model during the show, but it may still be necessary for organizational and/or judging purposes. If your model is on a diorama or display base it should be securely attached to the base to avoid it sliding off if handled. Alternatively, a note warning that it is not attached to the base is recommended, but this is still not a guarantee of safety. Signs on our display tables will state, “Do not Touch!”*

JUDGING SUMMARY

The NCMSS uses the “Open” judging system used at most U.S. Figure Exhibitions (Chicago, Atlanta, MFCA etc.). <http://www.military-miniature-society-of-illinois.com/opensystem> Judging is done by two or more teams with each team consisting of three judges. Judges WILL NOT judge their own work. The basic judging procedure is as follows: the judges by concurrence select the pieces to be judged, and then judge them individually. The judging team selects for judgment the piece or pieces most likely to give the exhibitor the highest award. At least one piece or group of pieces is selected for each exhibitor, even if the judges feel the work is not likely to win an award. As the selections are made, each judge enters the title of the piece and the name of the exhibitor on his judging form.

The judges then award points independently of each other. Each judge awards each piece or group previously selected up to four points: 2 points for a Bronze Medal, 3 points for a Silver Medal, and 4 points for a Gold Medal.

These sheets with the numeric scores are then turned in to the Awards Committee. The Committee ensures the accuracy and integrity of the scores, and then tallies up the points given by each judge in order to determine the level of award given to each piece or group of pieces that were judged. The maximum point value any piece or group can receive is 12 points. The awards are assigned based on point totals. 11 to 12 points rates a Gold Medal; 8 to 10 points is a Silver Medal; 3 to 7 points is a Bronze Medal.

The Awards Committee Chairman supervises the judging. Experience with the system and detachment from the actual judging process gives him an overall view of the work on exhibition and the judging process. In the case of disagreement, or even a tie within the judging teams, the Awards Committee Chairman will have the final say.

Judging Criteria (not necessarily listed in order of importance or consideration):
