Parade Ground

NCMSS Club Meeting

May 2021

Mike Dutcher

Sigvald The Magnificent
Games Workshop
Commission
Acrylics

One of my first two commission pieces.
A lot of fun to paint. Good practice with metallic paints.

Mike Dutcher (continued)

Lord of Gluttony
Games Workshop
Commission
Acrylics

One of my first two commission pieces. Learned a lot about myself as a painter/modeler. I am not a vehicle painter.

Mike Dutcher (continued)

Magnus the Red
Games Workshop
Commission
Acrylics

King of the Jungle
To be painted as Elmer the Patchwork Elephant
Reaper Miniatures (Bones Black)
Personal Project
Acrylics

Mike Dutcher (continued)

Skadi Wavesplitter
Diorama
Reaper Miniatures
Personal Project
Acrylics

Sir Launcelot
Experimenting with NMM
Demented Games
Personal Project
Acrylics
More work in progress photos

Mike Dutcher (continued)

Be’Lakor
Games Workshop
Commission
Acrylics

Mortarion
Games Workshop
Commission
Acrylics

Rick Sanders

“28mm Heinrichsen "group" figure: 1386 Battle of Sempach, where according to legend, the Swiss soldier Winkelried sacrificed himself by gathering the lance heads to his chest, thus causing a breach in the Austrian line. This allowed the Swiss to penetrate the enemy's formation and to defeat the Austrians. This figure was designed and engraved in 1891 - so 130 years ago! Front and rear painted, as I do consistently.”

Rick Sanders

“Heinrichsen 28mm "group figure": 1444 Battle of St. Jakob an der Birs (Switzerland), with Swiss against the Austrians. Left to right the flags are cantons of Bern, Lucerne, Glarus and Uri. The figure was designed and the mold engraved in 1895-96.”

Peter Espada

"Nike Hercules surface-to-air missile system of the 1950's and 1960's from the recently-issued Atlantis (ex-Revell) kit. This two-stage missile was principally designed to bring down Soviet bomber fleets by exploding up to a 40 kiloton nuclear warhead in their midst.
The kit itself is very nice in spite of the molds being around 64 years old. It required a lot of fine fitting to get the parts to "settle" together, but it was better than most kits of this age. And I got the elevation mechanism to work, too! Not many kids can brag about that.
The puzzle for me was, what was the three-man crew supposed to be doing, exactly? One soldier holding a phone receiver, the other two waiting for bad news, perhaps? In addition, I could not find a single picture of a Nike Hercules with the emblems and lighting bolt painted on the booster stage, so I left them off. This paint scheme looks more like the ones I saw in pictures I found online. A fun build."

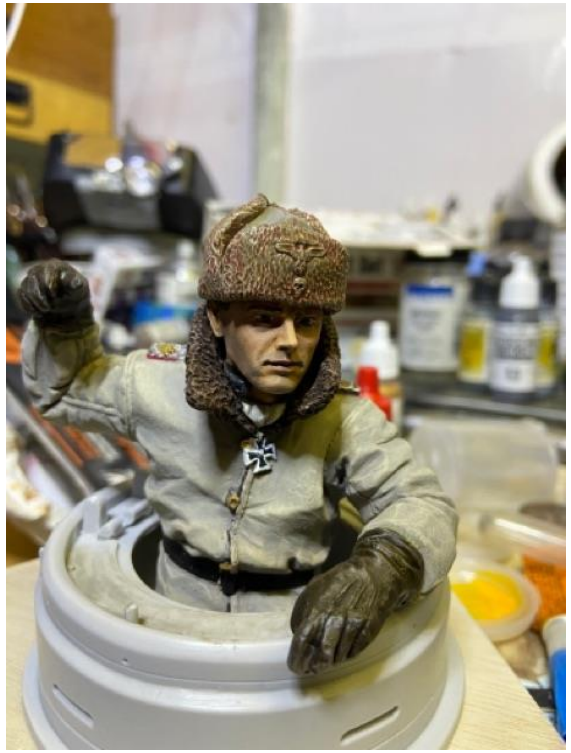
Peter Espada

Mt. Disapointment, Angeles National Forest, a deactivated Nike base that was my Fire Station in 1980 (Ed.)

Robert Huettner

Completed Sir William Wallace by FeR.

Max Wunsche progress- and his commander's cupola (also in progress) experimenting with the hairspray technique).



Michael Pierce

Figure is a Rubin Squadron Napoleonic Lancer around 58 mm that has been modified with historex parts and putty for new plume, new arms, new face(first time I have attempted), braiding and piping. He will be holding a lance and sword

Second figure, unknown origin, modified as Butler's Rangers , Loyalist Group in American Rev. Head is historex. He is holding a Tamiya rabbit.

Brian Nicklas

1/8 Aurora “USAF Pilot” aka “Steve Canyon”
Rebuilt from a model built circa 1958 (NOT by me!). Taken apart into major subassemblies, stripped, reassembled, primed then painted with enamels, oils and acrylics.

1/8 Moebius “Piscine Amphibious Humanoid” aka “The Creature from the Black Lagoon”
Painted with a mix of enamels and acrylics. (Before and After paint)

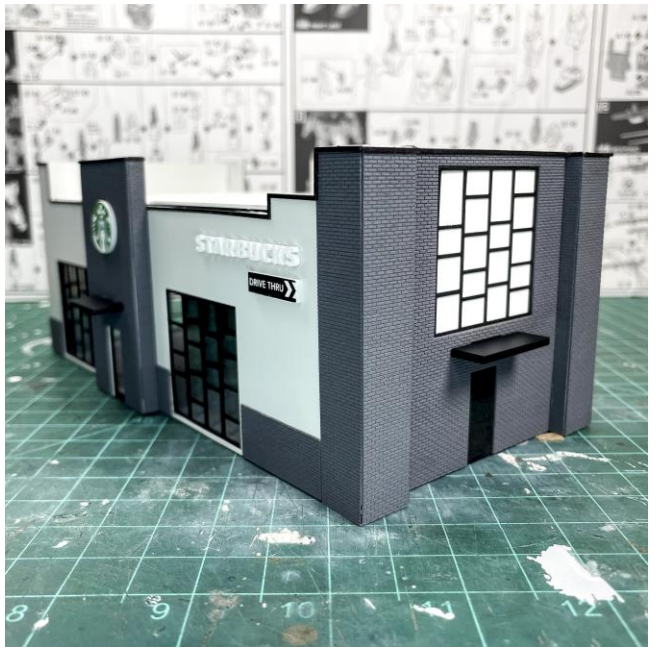
1/8 Moebius “The Grim Reaper”
Work in Progress

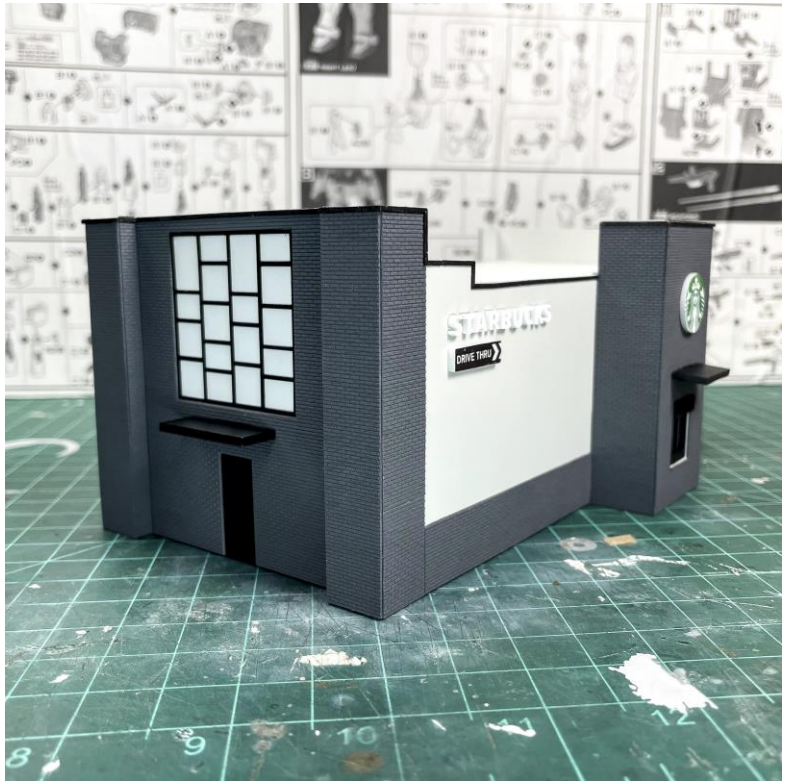
Nick Strocchia

Nick's Nam Gundam Project.

Nick Strocchia

Starbucks project. Can’t wait to hear what this is about!





Mike Thomas

Miles, Legio XI. Mike's review forthcoming in Dispatch.

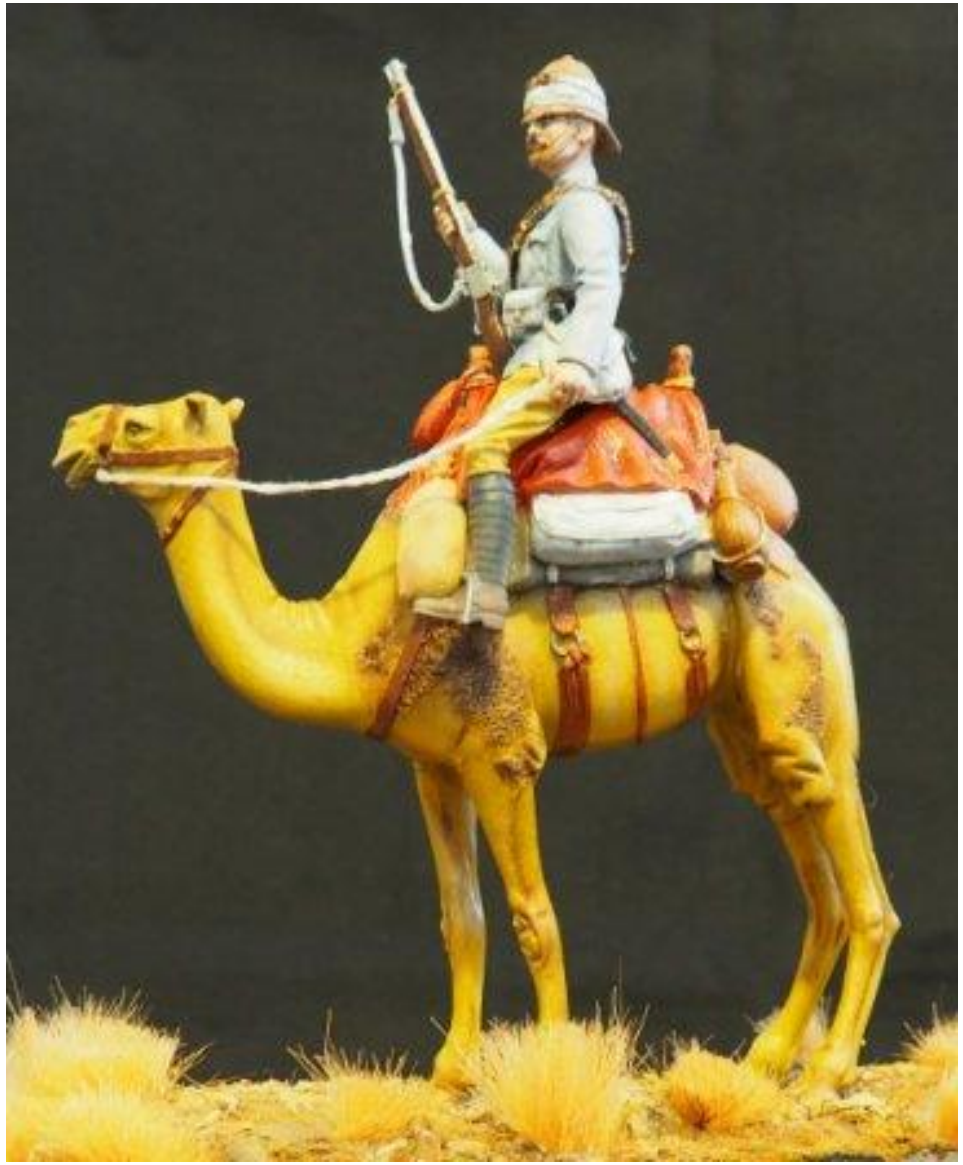
Roman march (sic), 1st century AD, 1/9th (250mm)
Medieval Forge Miniatures via El Greco
info@elgrecominiatures.co.uk

Mike Thomas

Signifer, Legio I

Mike Thomas

Grieve figure of a Guards Heavy Camel Regiment (Gordon Relief Expedition, 1882, Sudan War). This figure is quite old (as figures go), possibly as much as a 30-year veteran.



David Hoffman

Genghis Khan, Pegaso 200mm

Vallejo Basecoat, Gunze Sangyo Mr. Metal for Lamellar Armor, Vallejo Brass/Gold for yellow metal. Jo Sonja's Acrylics for embroidery.

David Hoffman

Young Miniatures Roman cavalryman, 3rd Century CE. 1/10 Scale.

Nuts Planet Hannibal Barca, second Punic War.

Vallejo Acrylics and Vallejo Liquid Gold (Alcohol Based).

NCMSS Washington Show

Save the date, September 25. Same venue as last live show at the Springfield Hilton.