

National Capital Model Soldiers Society 2022 Washington Show

Categories, Awards & Contest Rules

(As of September 4, 2022)

This October 1st the NCMSS Washington Show is returning to its previous venue at the Springfield Hilton in Northern Virginia. As is our custom Gold, Silver and Bronze awards will be given according to the “Chicago” or “Open” system selected by judging teams. We will also continue the opportunity for all entrants to vote for the “People’s Choice Best of Show”.

These are the categories for this year’s show:

Junior Level – The Junior Level is intended for novice painters and modelers under the age of 18.

Awards for qualified exhibits are Certificates of Merit and a Medal.

Note: If a modeler is 18 or under, and if they feel their work is competitive at the General or Advanced Level, they are free to put their work in those levels.

General Level – The General Level is for miniaturists or modelers of more developed skills, but who don’t feel quite ready to exhibit their work at the advanced level.

Awards are Pewter Medals and Certificates of Merit.

Advanced – the Advanced Level is geared to modelers of proven ability who have won awards at similar exhibitions in the past. Exhibits at this level are entered in one of eight divisions:

- Historical Painters
- Historical Open
- Fantasy/Science Fiction Painters
- Fantasy/Science Fiction Open
- Ordnance
- Gundam Painters
- Gundam Open
- Diorama

Awards are Gold, Silver, Bronze Medals and Certificates of Merit in each division.

judges will select a “Best of” in each of the eight divisions.

In the Historical, Fantasy/Science Fiction and Gundam Painters Divisions, judging is based entirely upon painting skill. Exhibitors should note on the Registration Forms the kit manufacturer. Although scratch-built and converted figures may be entered in the Painters Division, these figures will be judged solely on the quality of the painting.

The Historical, Fantasy/Science Fiction and Gundam Open Divisions are intended primarily for scratch-built and converted figures, but also vignettes; exhibits are judged on equal measures of imagination, presentation, and painting/modeling skill. Exhibitors should note on the Registration Forms the kit manufacturer. If the work is a conversion, a short description of what was done to convert the figure or note that the figure is scratch built is helpful. For vignettes the figures and/or vehicles need not be conversion or scratch built.

The Ordnance Division is for models without figures, such as aircraft, tanks, cars, and ships. In this division, NCMSS does not differentiate stock/commercial kits from converted or scratch-built kits and models. Judging will be based solely on modeling and painting skills. Note: Figures may be included, but they will not be considered in the judging. This Division is sponsored by Northern Virginia Modelers.

Diorama Division is for a combination of models with a believable setting that tells a story, or sets a mood, or creates a charged atmosphere. In addition to evaluating the modeling of a diorama's individual elements, the judges will consider the strength of the diorama's storyline or mood and the overall presentation of the diorama. These three factors are equally important. For dioramas, the figures and/or vehicles need not be conversion or scratch built. This Division is sponsored by Northern Virginia Modelers.

JUDGING SUMMARY

The NCMSS uses the "Open" judging system used at most U.S. Figure Exhibitions (Chicago, Atlanta, MFCA etc.). Judging is done by two or more teams with each team consisting of three judges. Judges WILL NOT judge their own work. The basic judging procedure is as follows: the judges by concurrence select the pieces to be judged, and then judge them individually. The judging team selects for judgment the piece or pieces most likely to give the exhibitor the highest award. At least one piece or group of pieces is selected for each exhibitor, even if the judges feel the work is not likely to win an award. As the selections are made, each judge enters the title of the piece and the name of the exhibitor on his judging form.

The judges then award points independently of each other. Each judge awards each piece or group previously selected from one to four points: 1 point for a Certificate of Merit. 2 points for a Bronze Medal, 3 points for a Silver Medal, and 4 points for a Gold Medal.

These sheets with the numeric scores are then turned in to the Awards Committee. The Committee ensures the accuracy and integrity of the scores, and then tallies up the points given by each judge in order to determine the level of award given to each piece or group of pieces that were judged. The maximum point value any piece or group can receive is 12 points. The awards are assigned based on point totals. 11 to 12 points rates a Gold Medal; 8 to 10 points is a Silver Medal; 5 to 7 points is a Bronze Medal; and 1 to 4 points is a Certificate of Merit.

The Awards Committee Chairman supervises the judging. Experience with the system and detachment from the actual judging process gives him an overall view of the work on exhibition and the judging process. In the case of disagreement, or even a tie within the judging teams, the Awards Committee Chairman will have the final say.

Judging Criteria (not necessarily listed in order of importance or consideration):

- Creativity
- Workmanship
